The Rev. Canon David Reid was an Anglican Priest in the Diocese of NS & PEI who passed away in October 2007, at the age of 66 due to an inoperable brain tumour. David was a very instrumental priest within the Diocese. He did a great deal to help meet the needs of many in the two provinces. He also was a much loved mentor and supervisor to many who were preparing for ordination within the Anglican Church. To honour his memory his family chose to set up a Bursary Fund, to be award annually to a student who is answering a call to serve as an ordained priest in the Diocese of Nova Scotia and PEI. Those who knew David knew that golf was one of his passions and remained so right up to the time of his death. Therefore the family wished to do something to acknowledge this part of his life and pair it with one of his other passions, mentoring those who were answering a call to ordained ministry within the diocese.

*Having educated and trained leaders within religious faith communities is very important to our society's, and the world's, social network of volunteer support services. Many of those who spearhead, lead, or volunteer in these organization have a connection to a religious organization. As the 2009 publication from Statistics Canada, Caring Canadians:Involved Canadians, reports, "Those who report attending religious services at least once a week are much more likely than others to be top volunteers (23% vs. 9% of those who did not attend weekly) . . .the likelihood of volunteering in later life appears to be linked to a number of early life experiences . . .[3rd highest ranked being linked to] having been active in a religious organization".*
